Plagiarism Policy

The Journal follows a strict anti-plagiarism policy to ensure the originality and integrity of published works. All submissions are checked using reliable plagiarism detection software before the review process.

Manuscripts found with significant similarity or copied content from previously published works will be rejected immediately. Authors are responsible for ensuring that their work is original, properly cited, and free from unethical practices such as self-plagiarism or data manipulation.

In cases where plagiarism is detected after publication, the paper will be retracted, and appropriate actions will be taken as per the journal's ethical guidelines.